

Congratulations! One year without a recordable injury!

Georgia Biomass celebrates health and safety record

Wood pellet producer Georgia Biomass, a subsidiary of RWE Innogy GmbH, celebrates its successful health and safety record: for the first time since Georgia Biomass was formed, it has achieved one full year without a recordable injury. In addition, the company is currently in its third year without lost time injury. Jim Roecker, CEO of Georgia Biomass, explains: "This achievements exemplify the commitment to safety that employees and contractors demonstrate each day at Georgia Biomass. I am grateful for all the effort put forth by the Georgia Biomass team to continue to strive for operational excellence while maintaining the highest of safety standards."
